MC SQUARED ENERGY SERVICES LLC LAUNCHES NEW WEBSITE

Site provides non-residential customers with valuable information on how to mitigate risks when purchasing electricity supply

Chicago, IL – MC Squared Energy Services, LLC (mc²), an Illinois-based retail electricity supplier, has launched its new website at www.mc2energyservices.com. The new site includes information on the company's innovative mc² Choice product that helps mitigate risks for non-residential customers who purchase electricity in Illinois.

"Our new website provides business customers with resources to help them understand today's volatile energy markets and the products available from our company to help balance their risk tolerance," said Chuck Sutton, president of mc². "As part of our unique mc² Choice product, we offer an energy price cap to benefit customers who want to limit their exposure to upward market price fluctuations."

The new website includes information on "green" products available from mc², including Renewable Energy Certificates (RECs) that are compliant with the State of Illinois renewable portfolio standards. The site also contains energy efficiency ideas available through mc² that can help a business become more efficient in the way they use their electricity.

Established in 2008, mc² provides electricity to more than 600 accounts in the Commonwealth Edison service territory including commercial real estate buildings, condominium associations, manufacturing and warehouse facilities, retail outlets, educational and health care complexes, and data centers.
