Want to Reduce Your Energy Costs? Do Some Spring Cleaning!

Although spring officially starts in March, many people kick the season off with April spring cleaning. As you look forward to warmer weather, don't forget to add these energy-saving items to your spring cleaning to-do list:

Central A/C: This can be one of the biggest and most costly items on your summer energy bill. Dirty components will increase your energy costs by making your system work harder to cool your home. Perform preventative maintenance by cleaning or changing your air filters, cleaning the area around the outdoor condenser unit and replacing corroded parts.

Home Appliances: Many modern appliances are so well-designed that they're easy to overlook during spring cleaning. But routine maintenance will extend their life span, not to mention their efficiency.

- Begin with the dishwasher. Remove food buildup, clean the filter basket, filters and spray arm.
- Refrigerators also need attention. Clean the condenser coils and check for any leaks.
- Vacuums are most often abused and overlooked. Check and replace worn-out belts, bags, filters and bristles.
- Lastly, maintain your ceiling fans by dusting off the blades and tightening the screws.

Air-Duct System: Inspect and clean your home's air-duct system buildups of mold, dust and pet dander. These can significantly affect your home's air quality and lead to further damage of appliances.

These spring cleaning tasks can feel like (and are) a bit of a chore — but are well worth it for the money you'll save in potential energy bills, repairs and replacements.
